Changes in management at P+P Pöllath + Partners

Last Saturday, January 25, 2014, Munich partner Michael Inhester was elected to become a new member of the firm's management board. Inhester succeeds Stefan Lebek in this position, who retired from the board after a four-year term in this position according to the rotating appointment schedule.

Michael Inhester joined P+P Pöllath + Partners in 1999. As one of 19 Munich partners, he advises on tax law, M&A, venture capital and private equity. He specializes in legal advice to investors, sellers and management teams on buy-out transactions and venture capital investments.

Alongside Michael Inhester, Amos Veith (Berlin) and Matthias Bruse (Munich) continue in their positions as managing partners. The board, established in 2010, consists of three partners who serve rotating three-year terms. The role of the management board is to plan, organize and carry out centralized firm projects, as well as to coordinate the strategic orientation of the firm for all of its locations.
