Brussels IV – on the advantages of dying abroad

'The [European] Union has set itself the objective of maintaining and developing an area of freedom, security and justice in which the free movement of persons is ensured.' This is the plain wording of the first whereas to the UE Regulation on cross-border successions (so-called 'Brussels IV'), in which the European Parliament and the Council have tried to provide for a number of measures aimed at harmonising the conflict-of-laws rules of the different Member States. How have they succeeded in these ambitious objectives? This panel will also consider whether and how third countries will be affected by this new regulation, both in the case of EU states that have not opted in (such as the United Kingdom) or non-EU states (such as Switzerland).

This session will analyse a multi-generational business family, the composition of which will allow panellists to comment on issues around blended, common-law, same-sex, and multi-jurisdictional families. Panellists will address the planning measures that should be taken with respect to the business interests in light of the complex family structure. 'See you... out of court': dispute resolution – mediation and arbitration

The internationalisation of trust and inheritance law practice affects the planning and control of succession as it creates new cross-border issues, potential estate planning pitfalls and undesirable possibilities to attack trusts and other structures. Trusts have in particular come under attack by 'outsiders' to the trust, such as forced-heirship heirs, former spouses or creditors of the settlor. It is thus not surprising that trust litigation and inheritance disputes have increased substantially during the last years with the result that the family's dirty linen often risks to be washed in public.

This session will focus on:

- Attacks on trusts and other structures, including forced heirship claims against trustees and/or foundations.
- Alternative dispute resolution: arbitration or mediation as dispute resolution mechanism under last wills or for family disputes?
- Trust arbitration as an alternative?

1400 – 1630

The past, present and future relationship of onshore and offshore jurisdictions (a two-part session)

As the 'tax haven' becomes a relic of the past and full disclosure becomes a new pillar of modern multijurisdictional wealth planning, offshore service providers and onshore professionals are re-examining their relationships and opportunities for the next generation.

PART I – will include panellists from various onshore jurisdictions discussing the current and future role of offshore jurisdictions in cross-border planning.

Session Chair

Mark Osborne Osborne Helman Knebel & Deleery, Austin, Texas; Publication and Newsletter Editor, IBA Individual Tax and Private Client Committee

Speakers

Bijal Ajinkya Khaitan & Co, Mumbai; Membership Officer, IBA Individual Tax and Private Client Committee

Richard Hay Stikeman Elliott, London

Nicola Saccardo Maisto e Associati, London

1500 – 1530 Coffee/tea break

PART II – will include panellists from selected offshore jurisdictions to comment on the on-going reincarnation of the offshore industry and how they are balancing new compliance burdens with the continuing expectation of privacy.

International Bar Association

the global voice of the legal profession

The International Bar Association (IBA), established in 1947, is the world's leading organisation of international legal practitioners, bar associations and law societies. The IBA influences the development of international law reform and shapes the future of the legal profession throughout the world. It has a membership of over 50,000 individual lawyers and 205 bar associations and law societies spanning all continents. It has considerable expertise in providing assistance to the global legal community as well as being a source of distinguished legal commentators for international news outlets.

Grouped into two divisions – the Legal Practice Division and the Public and Professional Interest Division – the IBA covers all practice areas and professional interests, providing members with access to leading experts and up-to-date information. Through the various committees of the divisions, the IBA enables an interchange of information and views among its members as to laws, practices and professional responsibilities relating to the practice of business law around the globe. Additionally, the IBA's high-quality publications and world-class conferences provide unrivalled professional development and network-building opportunities for international legal practitioners and professional associates.

Individual Tax and Private Client Committee overview

The committee is concerned not only with what the law is but how it might develop in:

- Inheritance rights and succession rules
- Will making
- Lifetime giving
- Trusts
- Creditor claims against trusts and estates
- Regulatory compliance affecting trusts, including the tracing of proceeds of crime
- Charities, foundations and not-for-profit organisations
- Taxation of capital transfers and income; tax treaties
- Property rights of spouses and co-habitees
- Conflict of law rules

These matters are studied not only in the context of a sole jurisdiction but also with cross-border and multi-jurisdictional implications.

Members of the committee enjoy the following benefits:

- Enhanced knowledge of one's own jurisdiction
- Greatly enhanced expertise in solving problematic cross-border and multijurisdictional client issues
- Unrivalled global networking possibilities and access to leading experts worldwide
- A valuable tool for all trust and estate practitioners and an indispensable tool for international practitioners

The individual tax and private client committee includes practitioners from a broad range of civil and common-law jurisdictions. The panels and the annual specialist conference organised by the committee focus on international planning and comparative law issues relevant to any practitioner involved in private client work. The issues regularly debated include:

- Individual tax in cross-border contexts, including the taxation of investment income, investment or other structures including trusts, and inheritance and estate tax;
- The use of trusts as planning and protection tools, conflicts of laws;
- International successions, wills, probate;
- Asset protection/investment structures in common-law and civil law jurisdictions.

The committee regularly organises joint sessions with its sister committee (Taxes) within the Taxation Section of the IBA, and with other related committees in other sections of the IBA.

Additionally, the Individual Tax and Private Client Committee works with the Taxes Committee to form the Taxation Section.

European Regional Forum overview

The European Regional Forum was established in 1989 to provide a focus originally on the work undertaken by the IBA in developing the practice under changing legal systems of lawyers in Eastern and Central Europe. The forum was also intended to act as a channel for IBA communication with the bar associations of these local lawyers.
