New counsel: P+P Pöllath + Partners continues to strengthen its corporate and corporate litigation practice with an attorney from Hengeler

P+P Pöllath + Partners continues to expand: Alexander Ego joined the firm's corporate practice as counsel in the Munich office at the beginning of August. After six years in Hengeler Mueller's Munich office, Ego has moved to P+P Pöllath + Partners and will concentrate on the practice areas corporate and capital markets law, as well as commercial and corporate law litigation and arbitration.

Alexander Ego began his law career in 2006 at the Stuttgart boutique firm Walter Sigle Rechtsanwälte and has worked in corporate/M&A with Hengeler Mueller in Munich since 2008; he was a Senior Associate with Hengeler since Spring 2010. During this time, in 2012, he worked for a year at the New York firm Cravath Swaine & Moore LLP. Due to these previous positions, Ego has long-term experience in the practice areas of corporate law, capital markets law, M&A and contentious legal proceedings. At Hengeler Mueller, he recently advised MAN SE on the conclusion of a domination and profit and loss transfer agreement with VW (2013), Allianz Capital Partners on the sale of a 50% participation in Scandlines to 3i (2013), KKR on the public purchase offer to the preference share shareholders of WMF AG (2014); he has also advised clients regarding structural measures related to transformation law and D&O liability issues. In addition, Alexander Ego is an expert in international and European corporate law and the author of the related chapter on European freedom of establishment and free movement of capital in the Munich commentary on the German Stock Corporation Act.

Dr. Matthias Bruse, member of the P+P management board, comments on the appointment:

„Alexander Ego will strengthen our team and support the consistent expansion of our corporate and litigation practices, demonstrating our stable growth in this practice area. His broad expertise as a transactional attorney and in providing ongoing advice and conducting cases make Alexander Ego a valuable asset who will continue to successfully develop these practice areas.“

At P+P Pöllath + Partners, Ego will cooperate with the corporate team that includes the partners Wolfgang Grobecker and Eva Nase and will also work together with Matthias Bruse at the interface between this practice area and M&A. P+P Pöllath + Partners has been strategically expanding the corporate practice for a number of years. This continually increasing expertise was nationally recognized in the form of the JUVE award for „Law Firm of the Year: Corporate“.
